PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

ON

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING METHOD

REPORT

IQAC of Nehru College of Nursing conducted a Professional development programme on EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING METHOD on 20-9-2022 in NCN auditorium.

ABOUT THE PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

Experiential learning was developed by David A. Kolb with the assistance of Ron Fry. Experiential learning is an education method that focuses on skills, knowledge, and experience gained outside of traditional classroom settings. This includes internships, study abroad, and service projects. There are four major characteristics of experiential learning theory: concrete experience, reflective observation, abstract concepts, and active experimentation. When creating assignments that adhere to the experiential learning standards, one should give students an opportunity to reflect on the experience throughout the process of the assignment, the assignment should involve the five senses and engage the students' personalities, and the project should be meaningful to the students.

TOPICS DISCUSSED

- ✓ Types of experiential learning
- ✓ Characteristics of experiential learning
- ✓ How can experiential learning be applied in the classroom?
- ✓ Experiential Learning Cycle
- ✓ Benefits of Experiential Learning

RESOURCE PERSON

Ms. Danina, Associate professor, Canossa college of Nursing.

OUTCOME

The teachers gained knowledge regarding some examples of experiential learning in a classroom setting like field trips, visiting museums, or cultural institutions. Another example would be through hands-on activities like cooking with students or making art together. Students designing their own lesson plans or facilitating student-led discussions about lessons learned from past experiences/events would also be examples of experiential learning.

The teachers gained knowledge that AI technologies can enhance the experiences of both healthcare professionals and patients. The data-processing and predictive capabilities of AI enable health professionals to better manage their resources and take a more proactive approach to various aspects of healthcare.

With these technologies, doctors can then make quicker and more accurate diagnoses, health administrators can locate electronic health records faster and patients can receive more timely and personalized treatments.

The most common emergencies encountered in pediatric office practice are respiratory distress, dehydration, anaphylaxis, seizures and trauma.. PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME ON PARAMETRIC TESTS

REPORT

IQAC of Nehru College of Nursing conducted a professional development programme on Parametric Tests on 21-1-2023 in NCN auditorium.

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

A parametric hypothesis test assumes that observed data are distributed according to distributions of a well-known form (e.g., normal, binomial, and so on) up to some unknown parameter(s) on which we want to make inferences (say the mean, or the success probability). Examples of this type of test are the T-test for comparing mean(s), the binomial test for comparing proportions, and the F-test for ANOVA models, among many others. It is important to understand that the validity of a parametric test depends on the assumptions one can make about the underlying population(s).

TOPICS DISCUSSED

- ✓ Definition parametric tests
- ✓ Examples of parametric tests
- ✓ Choosing Between Parametric and Nonparametric Tests
- ✓ Key Takeaways to Remember About Parametric and Nonparametric Tests

CNE ON CHOREA GRAVIDARUM

REPORT

IQAC of Nehru College of Nursing conducted a CNE on Chorea gravidarum On 27-2-2023 in NCN auditorium.

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

Chorea gravidarum is a rare movement disorder that occurs during pregnancy. It causes involuntary, rapid, and irregular movements affecting the face, limbs, and trunk. This rare condition can have various causes, including complications from rheumatic fever, systemic lupus erythematosus, and antiphospholipid syndrome.

TOPICS DISCUSSED

- ✓ Causes of chorea
- ✓ Diagnosis of chorea
- ✓ Management of chorea

RESOURCE PERSON: Dr. Regina P F, Head of Obstetrics and Gynecology,

OUTCOME : The teachers gained knowledge that chorea gravidarum is a rare movement disorder that occurs during pregnancy. Its main symptoms are involuntary, rapid, and unpredictable movements affecting the limbs, face, and trunk. Treatment focuses on managing the symptoms and addressing any identifiable causes. Doctors may prescribe medication with caution due to potential risks to the fetus. Symptoms often resolve after delivery, although close monitoring throughout pregnancy and postpartum is essential. There is a risk that chorea gravidarum will recur in subsequent pregnancies.

CNE ON MENTAL HYGIENE

REPORT

IQAC of Nehru College of Nursing conducted a CNE on Mental Hygiene on 5-6-2021 in NCN Auditorium.

ABOUT THE FDP

The term "mental hygiene" refers to daily activities that support and maintain mental health. Public health guidelines tell us that we need to do small tasks daily to maintain our physical and dental hygiene, like showering and brushing our teeth. We are now extending the same concept to mental health. Just like going to the gym is about building up our strength, mental hygiene is about building up that mental muscle. It's an important way to maintain good mental health and build the resilience we need to help face challenges in the future.

TOPICS DISCUSSED

- ✓ What is Mental Hygiene
- ✓ Some examples of mental hygiene practices
- ✓ How long do I need to spend on mental hygiene practices? Do I need to do them daily?
- ✓ Royal Mental Hygiene Challenge

REPORT

IQAC of Nehru College of Nursing conducted a seminar on SWOT Analysis on 9-11-2021 in NCN Auditorium.

ABOUT THE SEMINAR

SWOT (strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats) analysis is a framework used to evaluate an institute's competitive position and to develop strategic planning. SWOT analysis assesses internal and external factors, as well as current and future potential. A SWOT analysis is designed to facilitate a realistic, fact-based, data-driven look at the strengths and weaknesses of an organization, initiatives, or within its industry.

TOPICS DISCUSSED

- Understanding SWOT Analysis
- Components of SWOT Analysis
- Strengths
- Weakness
- Opportunities
- Threats
- SWOT Table
- Steps in SWOT Analysis
- Benefits

RESOURCE PERSON: Dr. Midrula, HOD

OUTCOME

The faculty got a clear cut idea that theA SWOT analysis is used to strategically identify areas of improvement or competitive advantages for an institution. In addition to analysing thing that an institution does well, SWOT analysis takes a look at more detrimental, negative elements of a business. Using this information, an institution can make smarter decisions to preserve what it does well, capitalize on its strengths, mitigate risk regarding weaknesses, and plan for events that may adversely affect the company in the future

FDP ON ROBOTIC NURSING

REPORT

IQAC of Nehru College of Nursing conducted a FDP on Robotic Nursing on 10-12-2021 in NCN Auditorium.

ABOUT THE FDP

As the demands on medical professionals and healthcare infrastructure increase, the introduction of automation via robotics is inevitable. Robotics originated in science fiction literature and from there industrial robotic arms and more recently surgical robotic devices have been created.

TOPICS DISCUSSED

- Three Laws of Robotics
- Rehabilitative Aid
- Nursing Assistance Aid
- Surgeon Assistance Aid
- Telemedicine Aid

RESOURCE PERSON

Prof. Haseena K G College Of Nursing

OUTCOME

The faculty understood the various aspects of robotics in nursing, with the concerted efforts of doctors and bio-engineers; we have at present state-of-the-art robots. These robots are set to revolutionize the way we provide medical care to our patients. Soon, entire hospitals would be automated. From the staff greeting people at the reception desk, to the nurses in the wards to the surgeons in the operating room, all tasks would be performed by sentient or semi-sentient humanoid robots backed by a room full of doctors sitting in front of consoles, monitoring their every move.

At the end, all I can say is that robots are here to stay, and we must make space for them. They are our medical colleagues of the future.

CNE ON BLOOD COMPONENT THERAPY

REPORT

IQAC of Nehru College of Nursing conducted a CNE on Blood component therapy on 10-1-2022 in NCN Auditorium.

ABOUT THE FDP

This approach to treatment, referred to as blood component therapy, allows several patients to benefit from one pint of donated whole blood. The transfusable components that can be derived from donated blood are red cells, platelets, plasma, cryoprecipitated AHF (cryo), and granulocytes.

TOPICS DISCUSSED

- History
- Clinical Practice Guidelines
- Preoperative Evaluation
- Perioperative Transfusion
- Blood Component Transfusion in Pediatric Patients
- Monitoring and Treatment of the Adverse Effects of Transfusions

RESOURCE PERSON: Prof Kala, Principal, Elite College Of Nursing.

OUTCOME

The faculty understood that inappropriate blood component transfusion use has been decreased by audits, discussions with ordering physicians, ward rounds, computer-based decision-support systems and comprehensive educational outreach programs. The lack of data from prospective, randomized studies with adequate sample size, control groups, clinical outcome measurements and other features of well-designed clinical effectiveness research impedes the development of evidence-based clinical practice guidelines for blood component therapy. As our understanding of how the immune system functions and as technology has progressed, specialized components or manufactured products such as blood substitutes have been advanced as remedies to some of the complications with component transfusion. Most importantly, transfusion decisions should be based on sound physiologic principles and a comprehensive assessment of the patient's risk factors.

CNE ON TECHNOLOGY INTERGRATION IN EDUCATION

REPORT

IQAC of Nehru College of Nursing conducted a CNE on Technology Intergration in Education on 28-1-22 in NCN Auditorium.

ABOUT THE FDP

Technology provides instant accessibility to information, which is why its presence in the classroom is so vital. Smart phones, computers, and tablets are already an omnipresent element of everyday life for students and teachers alike. It's only natural that the uses of technological devices in the classroom are explored to create meaningful learning experiences for students of all ages.

Utilizing different types of technology in the classroom, including a virtual classroom, creates learners who are actively engaged with learning objectives. The implementation of technology also creates pathways for differentiated instruction to meet the unique needs of students as individual learners within a broader classroom climate

- What Does Technology Integration Mean in Education
- How To Integrate Technology in The Classroom
- Why is it Important to Integrate Technology in the Classroom
- Strategies Of Implementation For Age Groups

RESOURCE PERSON

Mrs Anuradha, Quality Staff Nurse, Government Headquarters Hospital,Pollachi.

OUTCOME

The faculty gained insight thattechnology has become its own form of literacy because of how often it is used in everyday life. Many careers use at least one aspect of Microsoft Office or Google Drive on a daily basis: balancing budgets on spreadsheets, creating decks or slide shows to be presented, or attaching documents to emails to communicate important information. Allowing students to learn and refine these skills prepares them for life beyond the classroom.

CNE ON EVIDENCE BASED CARE AND PRACTICE IN OBSTRETRIC AND GYNECOLOGY NURSING

REPORT

IQAC of Nehru College of Nursing conducted a CNE ON Evidence Based Care and Practice in Obstetrics and Gynaecology Nursing on 2-3-2022 in NCN Auditorium.

ABOUT THE CNE

Evidence-based management/practice (EBM/EBP) is the systematic, explicit, and judicious application of current best evidence in patient care decisions. The individual clinical expertise is integrated with the best available external clinical evidence.

By establishing a culture of evidence-based practice, better patient outcomes can be achieved, empowering healthcare professionals. Evidence-based practice culture, standardized structures, and processes must be implemented consistently and comprehensively across a hospital or system.

TOPICS DISCUSSED

- Assessment of readiness for EBP
- Status of clinical practice in obstetrics and gynecology in India
- Specific challenges in Indian settings
- The future of EBP
- Choosing an evidence-based practice for individual health professional
- Adopting EBM practice in obstetrics and gynecology: the way forward

RESOURCE PERSON

Dr.Magarani,Abirami College Of Nursing.

OUTCOME

The faculty understood the idea of evidence-based clinical management has gained popularity amongst Obstetricians and gynecologists; however, due to a lack of clarity on the basic steps and other factors, its uptake could have been faster. Newer strategies for the training and dissemination of the concept are essential. Including the idea in the undergraduate medical curriculum can be considered an immediate first step.

NATIONAL WORKSHOP ON BIO STATISTICS

The ways in which nurses were educated during the 20th century are no longer adequate for dealing with the realities of health care in the 21st century. As patient needs and care environments have become more complex, nurses need to attain requisite competencies to deliver high-quality care. Continuing Nursing Education within the Nursing Practice Environment is important in determining issues associated with unsafe practice, unproductiveness or incompetent nurses. Biostatisticians play a key role in the public health landscape, allowing scientists to support decisions made about patient care and better focus medical research, and to make sense of all of that available data.

With the aim of helping nurses to apply the most current and up-to-date research and evidence to patient care delivery, Nehru College of Nursing Vaniyamkulam & Nehru College of Nursing & Research institute Coimbatore organized A workshop on " BIO STATISTICS " on 25th & 26th April 2022. Mrs Sumitha Krishnadas Management representative NGI had done the inauguration of the programme. The sessions covered the most relevant areas in research & statistics. The resource persons for the workshop were Dr. Fuela Esther Thangam RN, Ph.D Principal, Nehru College of Nursing and Research Institute, Coimbatore, Mrs. J Kezia Angeline RN, Bio-Statistician St. Johns Medical College Research Institute, Bangalor ,Dr. Balasubramaniyan Krishnan Professor (Rtd), Bio-Statistics Aquatic Biology & Fisheries Kerala University, Dr. G. K Sellakumar, Associate Professor & HoD, Dept. of Psychology Sree Narayana Guru College, Dr. Sylvia Jayakumar Bio-Statistician, Chennai Research Consultancy, Chennai. & Mrs. Krishnaveni R Assistant Professor, AIIMS, Patna. 41 faculties, 6 PG students and 60 UG students from various leading nursing colleges in Kerala and throughout the nation had participated in the workshop online and offline. These kinds of programs provide challenging curricula to assist healthcare professionals to raise their levels of expertise while fulfilling their continuing education requirements, thereby improving the quality of healthcare & research activities

CNE ON DELEGATION AND CLINICAL SUPERVISION

REPORT

IQAC of Nehru College of Nursing conducted a CNE on Delegation and Clinical Supervision on 3-5-2022 in NCN Auditorium.

ABOUT THE CNE

Nurses have a variety of duties and, in many cases, a large number of patients in their care. Because patient care requires many time-consuming tasks, delegation is a vital tool to helping nurses spend their time in the most productive ways possible. Registered nurses have the ability to delegate tasks to several different kinds of healthcare professionals, including licensed nurses and nursing assistants, though the precise duties of each role vary from state to state.

Clinical supervision is a formal process of professional support, reflection and learning that contributes to individual development. All nurses work with people who are likely to be in physical and/or psychological pain – this can create a demand and put pressure on nurses that can be both testing and cumulative. Clinical supervision can offer support to new and experienced health professionals alike in their daily work.

TOPICS DISCUSSED

DELEGATION

- Importance of Delegation in Nursing
- How to Master Delegation in Nursing
- 5 R'sof Nursing Delegation
- Nursing Delegation Tips and Strategies

CLINICAL SUPERVISION

- Origins of clinical supervision
- Types of clinical supervision
- Preparing to take on clinical supervision

RESOURCE PERSON

Prof.Priya Mary Stella, Vice Principal, Nehru College of Nursing.

OUTCOME

The faculty understood the idea thatDelegation is different from assignment in a few key ways. When you assign a task, that task must fall within the scope of the assignee's job description, and the education and training required by that job must confer the skills required for completion of the task. When you delegate a task, however, that task is allowed to fall outside the purview of the delegatee'srole, provided delegating the task doesn't violate hospital policy and that the delegatee has obtained additional education that covers the task in question.Clinical supervision for nurses and midwives is increasingly becoming more widely used. This is mainly for two reasons: there is a search for support during what has been a challenging time for the profession and a recognition that a supportive, reflective and educational process (such as clinical supervision) has a decent evaluation literature, and we have people that have experienced it and continue to use it.

There is no one way of undertaking clinical supervision, but nurses and midwives must find a system that best suits them and their organisation. Fortunately, there is a lot of experiential and evaluative literature to help.

OUTCOME

The teachers gained knowledge of the decision of whether to use a parametric or nonparametric test often depends on whether the mean or median more accurately represents the center of the data set's distribution.

If the mean more accurately represents the center of the distribution of the data, and the sample size is large enough, use a parametric test.

If the median more accurately represents the center of the distribution of the data, use a nonparametric test even if it is a large sample size.

FDP ON TIME MANAGEMENT AND PRIORITIZATION

Nehru College Of Nursing conducted a FDP on Time Management And Prioritization

On 01/10/2019 in NCN auditorium.

About the FDP

Time management strategy and prioritizing tasks in the to-do list helps ensure that all will get to look at the most important ones first. As less-important tasks sink to the bottom of the list, we may want to re-evaluate the values compared to all the other demands on time. It can help employees be more effective in their roles by allowing them to complete more tasks in less time, and take on additional job duties which can help them qualify for additional roles or promotions. Additional benefits of completing time-management training include Increased productivity and Reduced Stress.

Topics Discussed

- Importance of Time Management
- Time Management Strategies
- Introduction to Core Time
- Identifying and Reducing Time Wastage and Organizing the work station/ work area
- Personal Growth and Planning
- Action for Better Time Management

Resource Person

Dr . Prof. LARISSA MARTHA SAMS

PRINCIPAL

Laxmi Memorial College of Nursing, Mangalore

Outcomes

Effective time management increases the focus and improves the productivity. Greater focus allows to capture bigger opportunities. It also allows to spend more time on the projects, goals, and people that matter. Time management is important to achieve greater focus and prioritisation.
